BOLD MOVES

School of Health & Rehabilitation Sciences

The University of Pittsburgh

The University of Pittsburgh's School of Health and Rehabilitation Sciences (SHRS) is a nationally renowned leader in the field of health care education, research and clinical practice preparation. With 13 different disciplines related to health and rehabilitative care, SHRS shapes future generations of health care professionals – therapists, counselors, advocates, scientists, providers and practitioners – trained to serve the needs of all people regardless of background, levels of health or mobility. We are built on a legacy of academic excellence and innovation and fueled by passionate educators and researchers, allowing us to meet the health care and rehabilitation needs of today and drive meaningful change in the future.

Many of our graduate programs rank among the best in the nation, including our #1-ranked Physical Therapy program, #3-ranked Occupational Therapy and Speech-Language Pathology programs, and #7-ranked Audiology program. Study in these fields or another of our disciplines: Athletic Training, Sports Medicine, Sports Science, Counseling, Health Informatics, PA Studies, Nutrition and Dietetics, Prosthetics & Orthotics or Rehabilitation Technology.

Success rates for graduates of SHRS programs for licensure/certification exams are consistently at or near 100%.
